The world's first African American grandmaster of chess visited Jacob Adams E.S. March 19 and took on members of the school's chess club in several simultaneous games.

Maurice Ashley, a.k.a. the Tiger Woods of chess, also talked to students about being successful and how chess can help students achieve. Ashley also visited The Collegiate School, Richmond Montessori and Three Chopt Elementary School in Henrico, and will return to Richmond this summer to run a summer chess school for elementary and middle school students.
